There is a large increase of membership in the Abbott Village Coal society, this term. Tonight the fifth payment will be collected, and parties who wish to join will do well to do so at once.

The Boston Herald says of the football situation: "With the annual football conflict between Exeter and Andover Academies only two weeks off, the impression given by the showing of the two great prep schools in their preliminary season, which ends next Saturday, is that Andover is the better. Never in the history of the Granite state institution have its representatives fared so poorly in the contests leading up to the greatest combat of all. No less than five defeats have been administered by opposing eleven, aggregations that Exeter has as a rule, in past years, had little difficulty in winning from. On the other hand, Andover has improved gradually, and only one defeat, that by Yale Freshman, has been chalked against it."

Turkey supper will be served both nights at the Free church fair.

Mrs. Abbie M. Smart has closed her home in Andover and has gone to Cambridge for the winter.

Kilpatrick, the well known former Andover football star, suffered a severe injury in the game between Yale and Washington and Jefferson on last Saturday, and it is expected that he will be out of the game for at least three weeks. Military Ball

The closing event in connection with the fair held under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps, Grand Army and Sons of Veterans was the grand military ball which was held in the Town hall.

The event was fairly well patronized although but one of the several companies advertised to take part in the military drill was present. This company was from Wakefield and after giving an excellent exhibition they were awarded the prize cup by the committee, headed by Col. Charles Sargent of Lawrence.

Following the drill Pearce's orchestra furnished excellent music for dancing.

Archaeology Lecture

Prof. Moorehead gave a very interesting talk on "The Games of the American Indians" to a large audience in the lecture room Tuesday night. The talk was illustrated by about 30 slides taken from old paintings and pictures. Prof. Moorehead described all of the most important games of the various tribes in North America; but perhaps the most interesting were the descriptions of the ball game of the aborigines which gradually developed into the modern scientific baseball.

Guild Tag Day

The new Andover forgot to celebrate the birthday of the man who gave us our grand old hymn of America, but remembered to have Tag Day.

When the festival was first suggested, conservative old Andover held up its hands in horror. Sales, fairs and bazaars, the familiar schemes for extorting money from the public, were recognized institutions, but this method, savoring of Bohemianism, was new and therefore dangerous. However, more tireless and enthusiastic committees never set to work, and by Friday evening every one was smiling and happy. The attraction at the Guild House was the Japanese Tea Garden given to the November Club by Prof. Williams. Its artistic structure and embellishments, the soft light from the lanterns, and the gentle little ladies in costume, with their cooing Japanese ways, serving tea and cakes, made a very dainty and effective picture in the gymnasium with its green walls. The event of the evening was the lively bidding for the King Tag, a beautifully decorated shield, which finally was sold for $247.50. Saturday morning the old blue and white went with the traditions, and a yellow and blue banner was flying to the breeze. Patient matrons, chaperons and companions, and indefatigable little taggers, with modest blue and yellow bonnets, rosettes, and yellow boxes, sallied forth to do or die. They haunted stores and the station, accosted innocent pedestrians, and held up vehicles of all kinds. By noon, citizens, houses, horses, dogs, carts and Academy boys were well tagged. Autos usually play an important part on Tag Days, but the Vanderbilt cup races interfering, first principles were resorted to, and a yoke of oxen with cart elaborately decorated, carried a group of children to and fro. The Brothers' Field with its setting is perhaps the most perfect bit of scenery in the town, and has shown many wonderful color effects, but who shall say that there was ever a prettier spectacle than when between halves, the dear little children—God bless them, in their yellow and blue regalia, took possession of the field, by permission, and many a silver piece found its way into the yellow boxes, in memory of some bright eyed little brother or sister at home. At five o'clock the tired taggers turned over their boxes to their matrons, and trouble began at the Savings Bank. Thirty-five gorgeous posters on exhibition in the windows of one of the Arco shops were removed to the Town hall, and at eight o'clock sharp bidding, interspersed with lively music by the P. A. Orchestra, began. An unusual feature of the auction was the low accompaniment by the orchestra during the sale. A handsome sum was realized. A few limbericks deserving honorable mention and the one receiving the prize were read, the prizes announced, and Tag Day was over with no bones broken, no disgraceful scenes, and more than $450 in the bank to complete the bowling alleys.

Now is the time to collect certain Forest Tree Seeds. One crop of the forest is gone—the white pine—and another is ready for the harvest. In years gone by the pine seed has been wasted in Massachusetts. It was wasted this year too, but it attracted more attention than in the past and the reports from various parts of the State show that more was collected than is usual. For instance, a man in Winchendon has collected 100 pounds of clean seeds this fall, employing boys to pick the cones for him, and he netted at least $100 on the job. Massachusetts could be made to supply its own seed for reforestation and it is squandering a valuable product so long as it does not. The rebuilding of our forests is of such vast importance that it is the first subject to be taken up at the conference of New England governors soon to be held in Boston. Land owners have an excellent opportunity this fall to provide themselves with the seeds or hard wood trees, such as the white ash, the rock maple, the hickory, the chestnut and the beech tree. The picking should begin at once and it should be completed before the second week in November.

On the white ash, for example, the leaves have fallen off and the seed remains on the tree; they are about two inches long and are provided with wings, hence are easily seen and reached. A medium sized tree, about as large as an ordinary apple tree, may yield about twenty pounds of seed, retailing at about $1.00 per pound.

AMONG THE CHURCHES, CLUBS AND SOCIETIES

THE ANDOVER CONFERENCE

All Day Fall Session Held Tuesday With the Church in Methuen.

The Andover conference of Congregational churches held its fall meeting Tuesday with the First church, Methuen.

The conference returned to its old-time custom of holding its first session in the forenoon and adjourning late in afternoon, with no evening session.

In the forenoon, some matters of importance to the conference—one matter, in particular, being strikingly radical in nature—were discussed spiritedly, but with toleration.

In the absence of Albert L. Batcheller, elected moderator at the spring meeting, Rev. Frank R. Shipman of Andover, alternate, presided.

After the devotional exercises and the routine business, the first matter of general interest came under the report of Rev. W. E. Wolcott, chairman of a special committee on the readjustment of conference methods, recommended by the national council and state association.

The first recommendation provided for an amendment of the constitution in Article four, so as to consolidate the committees on fellowship and on church extension, into one advisory committee, of six members.

The second recommendation was that the state bodies of churches and ministers be designated conferences and the local bodies be known as associations. This was adopted without discussion. It changes the name of the Andover group of churches, from the Andover conference of Congregational churches to the Andover Association of Congregational churches.

The third recommendation of the national council, endorsed by the New England conference, was more radical and provoked considerable discussion. It was, in substance, that ministerial standing be vested in the local bodies of churches and ministers.

The special committee recommended that this change also be adopted, but the chairman declared that such recommendation was made with misgivings, on the part of two members of the committee. If the change should be made, it would require extensive changes in the constitution. The matter was merely brought up for consideration, and if the change was favored, the committee recommended that a special committee be appointed to formulate the necessary changes in the constitution, to be acted upon at the April meeting.

It was moved that the recommendation be adopted, and that a committee be appointed to arrange the formulas. Rev. W. E. Wolcott moved to amend, by the appointing of a committee to bring in the question in a more definite shape, at the April meeting, and to bring in a list of the necessary changes in the constitution.

Rev. A. F. Dannels seconded Mr. Wolcott's amendment, and the motion, as amended, was carried. This leaves the question open for further discussion, when the special committee brings in its recommendations at the April meeting.

The chair appointed as this committee, Rev. W. E. Wolcott, A. C. Ferrin, and B. A. Willmott.

"Our church officers and their opportunity for Christian Service" was discussed as follows: "The Clerk," Rev. Dean A. Walker; "The Deacons," Rev. Ernest C. Davis; "The Committee," Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott.

There was an intermission from 12.15 to 2 o'clock p.m., and luncheon was served in the chapel.

At the afternoon session, the business recommended the adoption of a resolution requesting the state conference to consider the advisability of printing in the state minutes, in connection with the data concerning the conference, brief statements of the proceedings of the preceding meeting of the conference. Adopted.

Henry A. Smith of Lowell was elected a member of the committee of arrangements for three years. It was voted to hold the next meeting, April 27, at the Highland church, Lowell.

The following officers for the April meeting were elected: Moderator, A. C. Russell; alternate, Rev. C. H. Oliphant of Methuen.

Rev. A. F. Dannels moved that the committee on benevolence be authorized to prepare an apportionment for each local church to be referred to the committee on systematic giving at the next meeting. It was so voted.

Discussion of the topic, "A new and better conception of the pastor's relation to his people," was opened by Rev. F. R. Shipman of Andover. He said that the old-time minister was held to be the soul's physician, and had a sovereign remedy to be taken by everybody, in exactly the same way.

The roll-call of churches, with responses upon the subject, "New conditions in local church work and the necessary readjustments," was the closing feature.

Some of the most interesting new features reported were the organization of a men's discussion class in the Pawtucket church, and a down-town office in the First church, Lowell. The pastor of the First church reported that he was able to secure work for a number of men, and to answer many urgent calls. He told of one who came in to ask him if it was right, under certain conditions, to commit suicide.

The closing remarks were by Rev. T. A. Carlson of Dracut.

The total number of delegates reported was 84. Pastors 20, Sunday school superintendents 2.

Roll-Call at the Baptist Church

This was the time for the new social committee of the church, chosen for a year, to win their spurs as worthy knights of the cause. They did so, by providing a most royal and bountiful supper for the church and its guests. The tables, attractive with flowers and fruit, were laden with good things, and a happy company sat down to the feast.

A social season was enjoyed by all, and the roll-call followed, with responses from those present, and helpful letters from shut-ins and others who could not attend. The pastor spoke gratefully of "our precious heritage in the shut-ins," who pray so lovingly for the church. A happy note of thanksgiving sounded through the responses, of which the following is a fair sample. "My soul, wait thou only upon God; for my expectation is from Him." Reports from the clerk and the treasurer spoke of a gain in membership, and of a goodly sum from this evening's thank offerings.

All were glad to listen to a beautiful song by Mrs. Frederick G. Moore, one of the "sweet singers." Then Mr. Lombard introduced Rev. Mr. Bishop, of Tewksbury, as "a real, genuine, New Testament bishop," and his message was truly good to follow. Having spoken of enjoying "the pleasant spirit of the supper table, to say nothing of the good things," and "the solemn, serious, silent spirit in the church exercises which showed the presence of God Himself," he gave as his text, "Whatsoever He saith to you, do it." The outcome justified Mary's words concerning obedience to Christ, and ever since that time, those who have taken these words as the motto for their lives have been successful, though perhaps not in the eyes of the world. This message is to be applied to our lives; it means that Jesus Christ is to be the deciding factor as to what shall be our relation to state and nation, to the church, and to our daily lives.

The pastor's closing words were filled with gladness for the prosperity of the church, both material and spiritual, and with hopefulness for coming years. Improvements have been made in the building, the Sunday school is growing, the membership has increased 40 per cent. within the last few years. He said, "I am glad of the interest, the fellowship, and the loyalty. It is something to live for Christ's sake, to honor His name before the world. I believe that the Lord has a future for this church. I am glad of this message tonight; let us take it for our motto this year. I believe it is the key note. I believe we are going to be blessed."

The session closed with hymn and benediction, and all went home with rejoicing in their hearts for this pleasant celebration of the annual church rally.

CAMPAIGN'S CLOSING WEEK

Real Whirlwind Finish Is Planned by Leading Parties

GREAT FIGHT IN NEW YORK

Taft, Bryan and Most Noted Spellbinders Assigned to Participate in Battle For Votes—Members of the President's Cabinet Have Work Laid Out For Them—How the Candidates View the Situation

New York, Oct. 28.—The political campaign is to have a real whirlwind finish. From the highest to the lowest, all the spellbinders of all the parties will be out in force during the week and wavering voters will be urged by eloquent advocates of the several causes to cast their ballots "right."

In practically every state of the Union rallies and mass meetings almost without number have been arranged, but it is in New York, with its large number of electoral votes at stake, that the real battle will be waged. There practically all the leading candidates will concentrate their efforts, assisted by a large number of the country's most forceful and resourceful campaigners.

Ohio and Indiana will also be given considerable attention. Among the speakers who will urge the voters of Ohio to support Mr. Taft will be Secretaries Root and Garfield and Postmaster General Meyer, and the Republican presidential candidate himself will deliver two formal addresses at Cleveland and Youngstown. Vice President Fairbanks will head the Republican forces in Indiana.

William J. Bryan, after four days in New York state, will close his long, hard campaign by a series of speeches in Ohio, Illinois and Indiana.

Both Taft and Bryan are in this city. All the forces the Democratic national committee can summon will be brought to bear to secure the electoral vote of New York state for Bryan. Led by the presidential candidate himself, who will speak four days in this state, an army of speakers will be sent into every county and town to spread the doctrine and appeal for votes for the ticket.

The Democratic campaign in the state, it is planned by the party managers, will receive its impetus from the meetings here tonight at Madison Square Garden and in Brooklyn Tuesday. Besides these meetings, many others at which Bryan will speak have been arranged in different parts of the city. Tammany Hall has planned to make the Madison Square meeting the greatest demonstration given the candidate in this campaign.

The Republican wind-up of the campaign in New York city calls for twenty-two mass meetings to be addressed by speakers of national reputation, a parade of the Republican clubs of Greater New York and a big parade of the Business Men's Republican association. The big Republican event of the week will be the Madison Square Garden meeting on Wednesday night, at which Taft and Governor Hughes will be the principal speakers.

Mr. Taft reached New York last night from Gary, Ind., where he closed the campaign in that state Saturday night. The eighteen-hour journey afforded the candidate complete rest from talking and he took advantage of the opportunity to the fullest extent. Upon arriving he said he felt in first-class physical condition, although somewhat hoarse.

After the election is over Taft is planning a brief rest. "I have campaigned in twenty-one states," he said. "I expect to carry all of them, with the exception of those south of Mason and Dixon's line and possibly Maryland and Missouri. The situation looks better than at any previous time, and I shall enter upon the last lap of the campaign with a great deal of interest and enthusiasm."

Mr. Taft talked freely to various callers, in all cases expressing confidence in the outcome of the campaign. Asked to particularize as to the results in various states, Ohio, for instance, Taft said he hadn't a doubt but that Ohio would be strongly for him. "If I couldn't carry my own state, I wouldn't deserve to be running for president," he said.

Mr. Bryan declared last night that, with the exception of being very tired, he was feeling well. "I am finishing the campaign better than I ever have," said Bryan. "My voice has stood the strain well and I don't think that I have lost weight."

"Where have the Democratic gains been this year in comparison with other years?" the candidate was asked.

"This year the Democrats have gained in every state. Heretofore we have made gains in some states and have lost in other states. This year there are gains throughout the whole country and gains in every occupation. There are gains among the farmers, these gains being very marked. There are gains among business men, professional men and especially among college men. That is the interesting point in this campaign, as compared with the other campaigns that I have had anything to do with."

"What is the reason for this gain?" "Only one," replied Bryan. "I think that it is that the Republican party, in power for twelve years, has failed to meet the responsibility."

TOOK A POISONOUS DRUG

Abbie Stark Declared Responsible For Her Own Death

Nashua, N. H., Oct. 27.—At the conclusion of the testimony of Medical Referee Congdon, Judge Runnolls ordered the discharge of Miss Ines L. Philbrick and George O. Smith, who had been charged with murder in the second degree in connection with the death last Friday of Miss Abbie E. Stark.

Miss Stark died suddenly under circumstances that led to the belief that she had been poisoned, and the arrest of Miss Philbrick and Smith followed the allegation that they had given her a drug for the purpose of performing an unnatural function.

Only a few witnesses were heard before Runnolls ordered the discharge of the prisoners. Congdon testified that his belief, after having performed an autopsy, was that Miss Stark's death was due to having taken a poisonous drug.

Judge Runnolls ruled that an alleged confession made by Miss Philbrick to the medical referee was inadmissible as evidence, and then ordered the defendants discharged.

AMOY WILL SPEND $280,000 ON FLEET

May Appropriate Even More to Entertain Our Men

Amoy, Sept. 28.—When the Chinese government selected Amoy as the port to receive the second squadron of the American battleship fleet it made, according to popular opinion, a wise choice. The broad, well protected harbor, the climate from October to April unsurpassed, and the scenic beauty of the surrounding country, all unite in justifying the selection.

The second squadron consists of the battleships Louisiana, Virginia, Ohio, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, Kentucky and Kearsarge, under command of Rear Admiral Emory, and according to the itinerary they are due here Oct. 29 and will remain until Nov. 4.

The Chinese government has set aside the sum of 400,000 taels (United States gold, $280,000) to meet the expenses of entertaining the battleship squadron. The committee in charge of the arrangements has stated that the Pekin government has signified its willingness to make an additional appropriation should the original amount prove inadequate.

Amoy City, like most Chinese cities, is dirty and decidedly uninviting, yet there is a large open plot of ground, known as the drill grounds and a race course, about one mile distant from Amoy City, and directly accessible from the sea. This is will not be necessary upon this occasion for anyone to enter the city of Amoy.

Confagration Thought Incendiary.
Salsbury, Mass., Oct. 28.—An investigation of the fire which destroyed more than a hundred summer cottages and several small boarding houses at Salsbury beach indicated that the blaze was undoubtedly of incendiary origin. Most of the cottages were of inexpensive construction, and it is believed that the aggregate loss will not exceed $100,000. Greater loss was prevented by a fortunate shift of wind at a time when the flames were beyond control.

Excitement Kills a Clergyman.
Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Rev. E. J. Cooke, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church at Schuylerville, dropped dead of heart disease on the street here last night. Cooke came to this city to hear Mr. Taft and was on his way home when stricken. Taft's automobile passed just before Cooke was stricken and the accompanying demonstration and attendant excitement is thought to have affected his weak heart.

Birds Should Be Protected.
New York, Oct. 28.—President Dutcher of the National Association of Audubon Societies declared at the annual meeting of the association here that Americans were robbing posterity in permitting an annual crop loss of $800,000,000, due to destruction of insect-eating birds. He called for a fund to fight the commercial bird killers in every state legislature.

Strikebreakers For Paper Mills.
Madison, Me., Oct. 28.—A force of forty-three strikebreakers, accompanied by fifteen police officers, arrived here from Millinocket to break the strike which has caused the mill of the Great Northern Paper company here to be shut down since early in August. There was no hostile demonstration and none is expected.

Asked to Be Punished.
Providence, Oct. 28.—Admitting in the superior court that he had falsified his accounts to the extent of $19,385, and asking that he be punished for his offense, Robert L. Ward was sentenced to three years in prison. For twelve years he had been confidential clerk for the legal firm of Edwards & Angell.

Eight Hundred Flood Victims.
Manila, Oct. 28.—Official dispatches received from the sections visited by the typhoon and resultant floods that devastated Cagayan province recently place the death toll at 800.

Denver, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens of Portland, Me., was unanimously re-elected president of the National Women's Christian Temperance union.

PRINCE HENRY GUIDES AIRSHIP

Sails in Zeppelin's Craft as Guest of the Inventor

MANY DIFFICULT MANEUVERS

Return From Long Trip Along Rhine

Valley Greeted by Cheering Crowds

In Streets of Constance—Reached

Height of a Thousand Feet and

Disappeared in Clouds at One

Stage of the Cruise

Friedrichshafen, Oct. 28.—Prince Henry of Prussia spent several hours in the air yesterday as the guest of Count Zeppelin, who made an ascension in his remodelled airship. Not only did the prince thoroughly enjoy his experience, but he sat at the steering wheel for many miles of the flight, guiding the movements of the craft and compelling it to execute all kinds of complicated maneuvers.

Prince Henry's satisfaction at the great flight was unbounded, and he gave expression to it in a telegram which he sent to the emperor: "Under Zeppelin's guidance I felt just as safe as on my own flagship."

Captain Mischke also was a passenger when the start was made in the direction of Ueberlingen, to the northward of Constance. With Zeppelin at the wheel, the airship rose to an altitude of 600 feet and, moving rapidly against a strong wind, soon disappeared behind a bank of clouds. Soon messages began to arrive from the towns in the Rhine valley announcing the passage of the airship, but about 2 o'clock in the afternoon a sonorous sound from the sky indicated that the craft was returning. Soon it appeared above the thronged streets of Constance, where the prince saluted in acknowledgment of the ovation from the cheering crowds below.

It had been originally intended to make a flight of only three hours, and the royal family expected the prince to lunch at 2 o'clock, but the prince was so charmed with his successful aerial flight that he extended the cruise until he was driven home by the approaching darkness.

In all, the airship carried five men, two of them being mechanics, and after some water ballast had been cast off the airship rose gracefully and was soon lost in the haze. The Associated Press correspondent followed it in a racing motorboat, but was unable to keep the airship long in view, as it soon attained a speed of thirty-seven miles an hour. Shortly, however, the airship reappeared above the lake, emerging from a cloud bank like some uncanny visitor from an unknown world.

Count Zeppelin evidently wished to show the prince some maneuvering by the craft and he descended to about 300 feet from the surface of the water, turning from right to left and left to right like a well-drilled file of soldiers. Then suddenly it mounted a thousand feet and shot into the clouds, only the mighty hum of its propellers indicating the course it had taken.

The airship returned to its moorings at sunset. Captain Mischke said that the prince was anxious to remain for a few more flights, but that he was uncertain whether his engagements would permit. The prince expressed himself as astonished to find that the lengthy body of the airship showed only the slightest vibration. He regarded the vertical steering gear as simply perfect.

Supreme Court at Odds

Boston, Oct. 27.—Members of labor unions can be restrained by injunction from imposing fines on other members for the sole purpose of compelling workmen to obey orders to go on strike. Such is the gist of a decision handed down by the supreme court of this state. Two members of the full court, Chief Justice Knowlton and Justice Sheldon, dissent. A third member, Justice Loring, states that he, too, would dissent to the decision were it not for a former decision which covers a similar case.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Declaring that complaints come to the department alleging violation of the postal regulations concerning the disposition of registered mail endorsed for delivery to the addressee in person, an order has been issued directing that such mail must be delivered to no one but the addressee in person, not even upon his written order.

Farnsworthville, Mass., Oct. 26.—While riding on the top of a freight train, Francis Gallagher, aged 17, and Ambrose Cooney, aged 24, both of Worcester, were struck by an overhead bridge near here and were thrown from the train. Gallagher's skull was fractured and he soon died. Cooney escaped with a scalp wound.

Begged Policeman to Shoot Him.

THE BALKAN PROBLEMS

More Likely Than Ever to Be Settled by International Congress

London, Oct. 28.—The recent pour parlers in European capitals appear to have brought the idea of an international congress for the settlement of the Balkan problems appreciably nearer realization. Both Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria are adopting a policy of moderation. Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, announces that his government is ready to enter the congress to discuss the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, providing the discussion respects Austria's "sovereign rights" in those provinces, while the Bulgarian government is now reconciled to the payment of pecuniary compensation to Turkey.

A further rapprochement between the contending parties is expected to result from the visit of Emperor William to the Austrian emperor and Archduke Francis, who is regarded as the prime mover in Austria's forward policy in the Balkans.

M. Milovanovic, the Serbian foreign minister, has arrived in London. To his policy of moderation at a critical moment is attributed the fact that Serbia is not plunged in a war adventure. He will confer with Foreign Secretary Grey during his stay here, and the conferences are expected to confirm Serbia in a policy of peace.

"HEAVEN AND THE WEATHER"

Helped in Joining the Hands of America and Japan

Washington, Oct. 27.—"I suppose Heaven helped us to join our hands firmly," said Ambassador Takahira, with emotion, as he discussed the visit of the American battleship fleet to Japan, which has just come to an end.

Ambassador Takahira had returned from the White House, where he was the guest of President Roosevelt at luncheon, and he had delivered a message of thanks to the president from the Japanese emperor, replying to that which the president sent as the fleet departed.

The baron personally thanked the president for having sent the fleet to Japanese waters and said its visit furthered to a great degree the feeling of friendship held by the Japanese for the people of the United States.

Speaking of the fleet's visit, Takahira said: "The people of Japan are greatly gratified with the visit of the American fleet, for which they had been looking forward with the greatest pleasure in order to prove the sincerity of feeling entertained toward America and Americans. In respect to the details of the visit, the American people are already fully informed. I am now satisfied to hear from Japan directly that Heaven and the weather helped us to do all that we wanted."

Harrison Monument Unveiled

Indianapolis, Oct. 28.—The tribute of his home was paid to General Benjamin Harrison yesterday. The memory of Indiana's distinguished son, soldier, statesman and President of the United States, was honored in a way to be remembered by the thousands of citizens who gathered to witness the unveiling of the bronze likeness of their former fellow-townman. Vice President Fairbanks presented the monument to the people. A parade preceded the unveiling exercises.

Reckless Use of Revolver

Brunswick, Me., Oct. 28.—Entering the bedroom of his niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Euzebe Lachapelle, while they were asleep, Leonce Auletto, who lives in the same tenement, opened fire with a revolver. Lachapelle grappled with Auletto at the last shot, while his wife ran for the police. Three officers had a hard time to overcome the assailant. Jealousy is said to be the cause of the attack.

Secret Tariff Rates For Oil Trust

New York, Oct. 28.—That secret tariff rates, which were not filed with the interstate commerce commission, were issued by the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and that the Standard Oil company only profited by these alleged illegal rates, was testified to in the hearing of the railroad phase of the government suit to dissolve the Standard Oil company.

Egg-o-See Company Fails

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 27.—Circuit Judge North has appointed John E. Lintan receiver for the Egg-o-See company, which was organized here as the Battle Creek Food company. As the company was organized under the laws of Michigan it is understood that the legal proceedings in the receivership will center in the circuit court of this county.

Shots Land in Wrong Places

Newport, R. I., Oct. 28.—While a company of coast artillery were having target practice with machine guns at Fort Adams a stray shell struck the lighthouse at Beavertail, nearly two miles away. Election Next Tuesday

We referred several weeks ago to the condition of the political contest, and called attention particularly to the local situation. There has been very little change from then until the present time, and on the eve of the election the usual Republican success seems assured particularly so far as Andover is concerned. Registration in town is the largest in the history of the town, but three less than 1400 names now being on the lists.

It is probably the first time, certainly for many elections, when there has been a personal interest in the leading candidate for the Presidency. In the present contest many Andover men have personal acquaintance with Judge Taft, some of our citizens knowing him intimately. The only uncertainty which seems to be found in connection with the Presidential contest is the same in Andover as everywhere else. Many laboring men are saying very little about their preference but the assumption is, that the party lines will be pretty generally adhered to.

One of the most important positions for present consideration is that of Congressman. Every thing pointed to a very flattering re-election for Mr. Ames until the agitation against his efforts to secure the Democratic endorsement became pronounced. This agitation is being pressed by one of the most vigorous, as well as most highly respected citizens of Lowell, Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan, and there is no use denying the fact that he is making some headway in his fight against the congressman, on what he considers to be an issue of "political trickery." Congressman Ames' friends indignantly deny that any such effort was made as is charged, and it looks as if it would be pretty difficult to tell the truth of all the charges until the verdict of the voters is read next Tuesday, but his opponent Ex-Senator Flynn is making strenuous efforts and will probably secure a large vote.

The fight for senator between the present incumbent, Mr. Halley, and Mr. Bunting of Methuen is a close contest. Mr. Halley has made a good Senator, and Mr. Bunting an excellent Representative. He stands well in Methuen and there is every reason why he should have the hearty support of the Republican party whose candidate he is.

Friends of Mr. McTernan publish elsewhere a strong endorsement of his qualifications for the office of Representative, but to his friends and those who know him best the endorsement is not one whit stronger than Mr. McTernan deserves. The present indications are that his Democratic opponent will have the honor of running ahead of his ticket, but that Mr. McTernan will win handsomely.

So far as the other offices are concerned there has been no change in the situation, everything pointing to the usual Republican victories.

Editorial Cinders

There is nothing much more amusing in this world than the average reformer, and one of the most recent illustrations of the attitude taken by such reformers is afforded in an incident that happened in a recent business meeting in Boston. The meeting was called for the purpose of harmonizing certain differences between the West End Street Railway (which has now no relation to street railway service, other than as owners of valuable real estate,) and the Boston Elevated Company which is the active operator of the Boston Street Railway system. The reformer comes in in the person of Rev. Mr. Dole, who claims to represent the Twentieth Century Club, but who forgot the purpose of the meeting to severely arraign the railway service and express the wish that the service might be more fit for use of the people of the city. Inasmuch as an investigating committee representing students of the Street Railway systems throughout the entire United States, has recently reported that the Boston Elevated Railway is the best Street Railway system in the world the position of this distinguished critic well illustrates our suggestion that the ways of the reformers are beyond understanding.

"Tag Day" isn't every day, for which, in the words of the poet, we may well say, "Let us be truly thankful." Yet Tag Day in Andover last Saturday was a pretty good day, and the reason for it must be most gratifying to those who worked so hard to make it a success. It has made for the Guild a handsome sum of money, and those who helped, either through tags purchased, or enthusiastic labor, may well be gratified over the result. But "Tag Day" ought not to be every day, and there will be a great many people who will rather hope it won't be any day again, considering the discomforts and inconveniences attending its operation. Probably it won't be, for the schemes of raising money must take on new shapes every year, and probably some bright mind will discover a way to tell everybody that he is "it," better than even through the medium of Tag Day.

The death of George W. W. Dove takes away from Andover life a citizen who had for many years, exerted a wide influence for good in the community. Possessing a personality that made friends, and blessed with abundant wealth, Mr. Dove had been a wise councillor and a loyal friend to many of the important interests of the town. Particularly was this true of his relation to the Free Church, where since its inception, his family had been prominent in its affairs. The

ANNUAL FAIR

Grangers Held Successful First Night at Grange Hall Last Evening.

Grange hall never looked prettier than it does today, with its beautiful decorations of bunting and greenery in honor of the big fair which is being held there. The fair opened last night with a rather small attendance owing to the very stormy weather, but it is expected that there will be a large attendance tonight. The disagreeable weather does not keep many lovers of the Grange fair away as a rule and this one will be no exception. The fair is well supplied with all kinds of good things, including vegetables, fancy goods, china, aprons, gentlemen's goods, flowers, candy, and cake.

A grab bag, operated by Mrs. Herison and Miss Marion Abbott, was well patronized, and a full supply will be provided for tonight. In the corner at the rear of the hall is the vegetable guess, where the one who guesses the number of seeds in a squash will take the entire table full. George Carter and Edward W. Burrill have charge of this table.

Next comes the china table with its big display of beautiful and useful articles. Misses Ethel Smith, Lucy Carter and Caroline J. Burrill are in charge.

The apron table is laden with all kinds of aprons, little and big, suitable for all occasions. Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Milo H. Gould have charge here.

In the corner near the stage is the flower table in charge of Mrs. J. H. Playdon and Miss M. Winnie Burrill. Pinks, roses, chrysanthemums and potted plants are in abundance.

Next to this is the candy table, one of the most patronized tables in the hall. Miss Lucia Burrill, Miss Luella Phelps and Miss Clara Putnam serve here.

The cake table contains many excellent specimens of the work of the ladies of the Grange. The table is in charge of Mrs. Fitz and Mrs. Trusckle. Many dimes rolled into the treasury through the mystery table, where for that sum one can purchase a prize worth much more. Mrs. E. W. Boutwell and Miss Julia Byrne are the committee here.

The fancy table, prettily trimmed in pink and white, is presided over by Mrs. E. W. Burrill, Mrs. James McGovern and Mrs. Frank M. Foster. The articles here are useful and beautiful and the patronage last night was good. Next to this is the fancy apron table, where Mrs. James Feeney and Mrs. Asa Gould have charge. All kinds of dainty aprons are sold here at moderate prices.

In the ante-room at the rear of the hall is the gentlemen's table, where all kinds of wearing apparel, tools, cigars, etc., can be purchased from Ralph Bailey, George L. Averill and Bert Thornton.

The vegetable table is in the main hallway loaded with all kinds of vegetables, and presided over by A. W. Hardy and E. W. Boutwell. Harold Abbott, Herbert Carter and Kenneth Foster have charge of the peanut table.

As usual the Grange supper is excellent. The reputation gained in this department is certainly upheld in good shape by an efficient committee, consisting of Milo H. Gould, Gayton Abbott, Chester Abbott, Daniel G. Abbott and Joseph Blunt. Those in charge of the kitchen are Samuel H. Bailey, Frank M. Foster, John Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, Mrs. John Morgan, Mrs. Louise Bailey, Miss Collins and Miss Charlotte Hill. The waitresses are Abbie McGovern, Mary Ward, Gertrude Morgan, Susie Cutler, Ethel Clark, Helen Bailey and Anne Coleman. Mrs. S. H. Bailey is cashier.

The tickets are in charge of Philip Moar and J. A. Burrill, and James McGovern is in the cloak room.

Tonight is the last night of the fair and everyone should try and attend. The barge leaves the square at 5.30 and 7.30, the ride being free.

Centennial Birthday of Dr. Samuel F. Smith

The Townsman of last week alluded with regret to the fact that the one hundredth birthday of the author of the national anthem, "America," was not remembered in Andover where it was written. It may be of interest to state that at the "Wednesday evening prayer meeting" of the Seminary church, held in Bartlet Chapel on the evening of that day, attention was called to the anniversary. As it was a missionary meeting, Professor Hincks who had reported the proceedings of the American Board at Brooklyn, gave out the missionary hymn, "The morning light is breaking." This was specially appropriate as having been written by Mr. Smith in his Seminary room in Phillips Hall a few yards away. "Yes, my native land, I love thee," was another popular missionary hymn of the olden time, also written by Mr. Smith while a student here. Some of the elders may remember reading it in the old "Rhetorical Reader" of Professor Porter, who lived in the house afterward occupied by Professor Phelps and Dr. Day, and now by Mr. Stackpole.

Heavy Verdict for Plaintiff

The jury in the case of Alexander Crockett against the town of Andover returned a sealed verdict of $1800 for the plaintiff in superior civil court Monday.

Crockett sought $10,000 for personal injuries caused by an alleged defect in Andover street, the main highway between Andover and Ballardvale in the winter of 1905. He was driving a grocery wagon for J. H. Campion & Co. and was thrown out, breaking his leg and sustaining other injuries.

Crockett claimed that a deep gully had been washed out in the street, while the town maintained that the roadbed of the street was in good condition, the gully being in snow and ice above the street, for which the damages could not be collected.

Mahoney and Mahoney appeared for the plaintiff and Coulson and Murphy for the defendant.

A motion for a new trial was filed by the defendant at the opening of court Monday afternoon, asking that the verdict be set aside on the grounds that it was against the evidence, the weight of evidence, and against the law as given the jury by the court, and that the damages were excessive.

Awarded Heavy Verdict

At the opening of superior civil court Thursday morning the jury in the case of Horace P. Eaton against William N. Pike and Son returned a verdict of $2000 for the plaintiff.

The plaintiff sued for $15,000 damages for personal injuries sustained as a result of being thrown from his team in Andover, a loose wire hanging over Marland street catching him about the shoulders and dragging him to the ground, seriously injuring his back. The plaintiff claimed that the defendant was responsible for his injuries because the wire had been loosened by reason of the removal of a stationary engine belonging to the defendant.

The case will go to the supreme court on exceptions.

Accidental Shooting

Gerald Robinson, 11 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Robinson of 15 Gleason street, Methuen, was accidentally killed in West Andover Saturday by his brother, Charles, aged 13, while the two were on a gunning trip, with their cousin, Percy Robinson, son of James R. Robinson, of 18 Beacon street, Lawrence.

The shooting occurred on Woodland road, near the residence of S. K. Peterson in West Andover.

The three boys had traveled a few miles through the woods and finally came across some nuts. They were seated on a wall cracking them when Charles decided to try his cousin's rifle, and as he fired his brother Gerald stood up and was struck by the bullet. He died before medical aid could reach him.

Satisfied that the shooting was purely accidental the Andover authorities allowed Charles Robinson to return home.

An autopsy was performed Sunday by Medical Examiner Dow, assisted by Dr. Howe of Lawrence. Dr. Berwick of Methuen was present, as was Chief of Police Pomeroy of this town. The autopsy showed that the rifle bullet, of 22 calibre, entered the brain, causing death instantaneously.

The wounded boy was carried by his brother and cousin to the house of Mr. Peterson. Chief of Police Pomeroy and Dr. J. A. Leitch were notified but the boy was dead when they arrived. The body was removed to Messer's undertaking rooms and later to Methuen, after being viewed by Medical Examiner G. W. Dow.

Appealed Cases

On Monday night at half past seven o'clock, W. T. May of Newton Centre and Dr. C. F. Gleason of 3 St. Botolph street, Boston, appeared before Judge Stone to answer to a charge of overspeeding their automobiles on Main street on Saturday, October 17. The former was represented by Attorney Thibedeau of Boston, who conducted the case.

Officers May and Myerscough of the local police testified that the defendant was going a great deal faster than the law allows and that at the particular time the traffic was very heavy.

The defendant claimed that he was going at a moderate rate of speed and that the traffic was not as heavy as to make it dangerous. The court found him guilty, however, and fined him $15. He appealed and was ordered to appear at a session of superior court in Salem on the second Monday in November.

Dr. Gleason was then called and said that on the afternoon in question he had a party of six friends in the car and was going slowly down the hill so that they could see the buildings. He said that when he had reached the top of the hill he discovered that his foot brake would not work and immediately put his hand on the emergency brake and came down the hill in this way. He said that there were no teams on the street at the time and did not consider the course dangerous. His speed, he thought, averaged about 12 or 14 miles.

He was found guilty by the court and was ordered to pay $15. He entered an appeal and was ordered to appear at the Salem court.

In passing on the cases, Judge Stone said that in many cases drivers of automobiles do not consider the speed at which they are traveling unless they are watching their speedometers.

The trap in which Mr. May and Dr. Gleason were caught was operated on Main street between Morton and Locke streets.

Charles F. Brown of Schenectady, N. Y., a student in Phillips Academy, appeared before Judge Stone on Thursday afternoon charged with overspeeding his automobile on Main street on the same day as the above parties. He pleaded guilty without examination and was ordered to pay a fine of $10.

On being allowed to address the court, Brown said that he was going faster than the law allowed, but it was as slow as the machine would go on third speed. He said that his father and mother were with him at the time and that the former told him to go as slow as possible on third speed as the machine causes a tremendous smoke when on second speed and rather than have the pedestrians and neighbors covered with smoke he put on third speed.

Brown thought that the fine was too heavy for the first offense under the conditions, but the court said that fine could not be suspended as others who are caught under similar conditions would expect to get off. The fine was paid.

Other automobile cases will come up before Judge Stone on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

ObituaryGEORGE W. W. DOVE

The death of George William Webster Dove, at the age of 73 years, at his home on Phillips street, on the 24th instant, marks the passing of another Andover citizen of the older generation.

For nearly two years Mr. Dove has been in a weakened condition incident to his age, and on Wednesday, Oct. 21, showed symptoms of bronchitis, which developed rapidly owing to his lack of reserve strength. His death came peacefully on Saturday morning. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Francis W. Lee of Chestnut Hill, Mass., and two sons, John of Litchfield, Conn., and Percival of Andover.

Mr. Dove, the only son of the late John Dove of this town, was born in Frye Village on June 4, 1835. He obtained his early education at the public schools of Andover and at Phillips Academy. He was graduated from the Lawrence Scientific School, Harvard University, with the class of 1857. Until the outbreak of the Civil War he engaged in his father's business, when he became active in organizing the volunteer company formed in this town, and was chosen one of its officers. He resigned this commission later, but served during the war as 3rd Asst. Engineer on board the U. S. S. sloop of war "Richmond", under Farragut, and went through all of the principal engagements in which the Farragut squadron took part. After the war he was connected with the Smith & Dove Mfg. Co., and later with other business enterprises in Boston. In 1889 he met with business reverses and from that time until his death was engaged in no active business.

ANDREW McTERNENREPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR Representative

So many mis-statements have been made regarding the attitude of the Republican candidate for representative, that his campaign committee believe it is well that the people should have their attention called to the splendid qualifications of Andrew McTernan for the position of representative from this district. Mr. McTernan is now in his fiftieth year and has lived in Andover for the past forty-eight years. Beginning at the age of twelve in the Tyer Rubber Company he worked for that concern for thirty-six years, rising through force of his own character from the position of boy in the shop employing a score of hands, to superintendent of the factory, employing nearly five hundred hands. Under his superintendency, covering a period of over fifteen years, the business prospered as never before, and his success as a worker and manager makes a strong indorsement of him in the present contest.

Mr. McTernan is a man of mature and ripened judgment. In the prime of life he will carry to his work qualities that will make him a most useful member of the Legislature. He lays no claim to being an orator, but the judgment which he has always displayed in public and private life will make him one of the most valuable members in an organization where the most effective work is done in committee. He is not without experience in public service. For eight years he was a member of the Board of Fire Engineers for Andover; for the past two years he has been a member of the Board of Public Works. His strong endorsement in the Caucus came from men who have worked with him and have consulted with him in business and public affairs. He is one of the most loyal Republicans in Andover, and has given his aid to the Republican party since his vote was first cast, nearly thirty years ago.

Mr. McTernan lives on Elm street, his family being his wife, who is the oldest daughter of F. Lewis Bodwell, an old time Andover resident, one son, Dr. Malcolm B. McTernan, and a daughter, Miss Alice. He has been a life long member of Christ church, and belongs to the Masons, Odd Fellows and other local organizations.

It is easy to talk about how unimportant partisanship is, particularly for a member of the minority party, but it is well known that the man who belongs to the dominant party has at once, through that membership, an advantage. Mr. McTernan has been, and is, strongly opposed to the district court proposition, and is loyally in favor of the principles set forth in the Republican platform effecting state and nation. He is a property owner in Andover, a conservative man in his views in public questions, and few men in the town would have a larger quiet influence among the Legislators than he.

He will go there as no man's man, his natural tendencies leading him to do his own thinking, and express his own opinions. Personally, he deserves a rousing election through the full vote of Andover Republicans, and party needs add greatly to the call to all loyal Republicans to see to it that nothing interferes with such an indorsement at the polls next Tuesday.

VICTORY RESTS WITH LAURIER

Canadian Premier Wins In His Final Contest For Office

SLIGHTLY REDUCED MAJORITY

Campaign Consisted Largely of Personal Attacks, No Great Question Being Discussed—Graft and Personal Misconduct Charged Against Members of Government and Conservative Members of Parliament

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Elections for the federal house of commons were held throughout Canada. Of the 221 constituencies in the Dominion, only two, Rouville, Que. and South York, Ont., returned members by acclamation. In all the others with the exception of five, which holds their elections later, there were contests.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

The returns show that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the present Liberal Premier, who in the last house had a majority of sixty-six, will be returned to power for another five years, with a safe, although slightly reduced, majority.

All the ministers have been re-elected with the exception of William Templeman of Victoria, B. C., who lost by five votes.

The campaign is the last in which Premier Laurier will participate. He told the directors that he desired to carry to completion the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad, the trans-continental system now under construction, and appealed for another term of office in which to further develop the northwest. He said the appeal was the last he would make to the electors of Canada.

The Conservative party, while not opposing the construction of a second trans-continental line, has severely criticized the heavy bond guarantee which the government assumed and condemned the indefinite plans for the eastern terminal of the system, in which the Conservatives claim there is no provision to prevent the traffic being diverted from Halifax or St. John to Portland, Me., the Atlantic port of the existing Grand Trunk road.

The Conservatives were charged by their opponents with circulating thousands of copies of a Boston financial publication containing an attack on the Grand Trunk Pacific project. It was further charged that rival railroad interests in the United States and Canada were behind the attack. Outside of the railroad question there has been little in the campaign of interest to Americans.

Throughout the six weeks' campaign there has been no great question discussed. The tariff is no longer an issue, and the business depression felt in other countries has not been acute in Canada. The campaign has been one largely of personalities, and many serious charges of grafting and personal misconduct have been made against members of the government and several Conservative members of parliament. No accusations involving their personal honor have been made against Laurier or Borden, however.

On the government side, William Fungley, minister of public works, and Sir Frederick Borden, minister of militia and defense, were subjected to violent attacks, and a strong fight was made against them. As a result several persons were arrested on charges of criminal libel.

Accidentally Killed Brother
Andover, Mass., Oct. 26.—Gerald Robinson of Methuen, 11 years old, was accidentally shot and killed by his brother, Charles, aged 13, while in the woods here. According to Charles, they were sitting on a stone wall cracking nuts when Charles saw a bird flying toward them and picked up his rifle to fire at it. In his haste the weapon was discharged prematurely and its bullet of 22 calibre entered his brother's head, through the nose. The wounded boy lived only a few minutes.

One Way to Stop Boy's Talking
Kansas City, Oct. 23.—The case against Miss Edith Wirt, the school teacher charged with cruelty because she stuck a pupil's lips together with court plaster, was dismissed by Prosecuting Attorney Taggart. Harvey Galoway, 9 years old, whose conversational propensities caused the teacher to punish him, has been taken out of the school by his parents.

LOOKED LIKE A MURDER

Peculiar Method Adopted by a Man to Kill Himself

Boston, Oct. 28.—Although at first the police believed that the man whose body, with feet bound together, and hands tied behind his back, was found floating in the harbor yesterday had been murdered, the harbor police announce that the suicide theory seems more credible.

The body was decomposed and evidently had been in the water for more than a month. An examination showed it to be that of a man about 50 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall and 140 pounds in weight. The hands were fastened together behind the back by a kind of a slipknot, while the feet were tied together tightly. Braided rope, such as is used in baling hemp, was employed. Attached by a rope to the waist was a stone weighing about twenty pounds.

While at first the case was thought to be one of murder, officers attached to the harbor police demonstrated to the medical examiner that a person could easily bind his own hands behind him by use of a knot similar to that found upon the body.

HOLLAND'S PLANS ARE KEPT SECRET

Some Talk of Her Blockading Venezuelan Ports

Washington, Oct. 28.—Diplomats, together with state department officials, are wondering just what is to be Holland's next step in her dealings with Venezuela, now that President Castro has declined to revoke his decree of May 14, prohibiting the trans-shipment of goods for Venezuelan ports at Curacao.

Neither at the state department nor at The Netherlands legation at Washington can any information be obtained as to the government's course regarding Venezuela in the event that Castro persists in his refusal to revoke the objectionable decree against Curacao.

There has been some talk of a blockade of the ports of Venezuela by Holland. With a blockade the Holland government believes that she can force Castro to terms.

HIS MISTAKE.

It Was Costly, but Cured Him of an Irritating Habit.

Bunsen was always a great kiddier. He isn't any more. Bunsen is a lawyer, although, of course, he is known by a different name. Don't ever get the idea, though, that this didn't really happen just because Bunsen's real nomination isn't mentioned.

As we were saying, Bunsen used to be pretty much of a kiddier. He would even kid his own patient little wife. Those who care to read on down a little farther will learn why he ceased to be a kiddier.

One evening last week when Bunsen got home his wife had a new hat to show him. It was some hat. Anybody could have seen that it was the final phrase in female headgear.

But Bunsen started in to make fun of it. He said it looked as if it had been trimmed by a cross eyed milliner on an empty stomach. And he made a lot of other disparaging remarks that were extremely harassing to poor Mrs. Bunsen.

"D'je buy it sight unseen?" he inquired. "Say, how much do they pay the girl that sold you that? She ought to have a raise. Any girl who could put that one over a customer must be something of a smooth saleslady, I'm here to remark."

Mrs. Bunsen was almost in tears. Bunsen had to go into the other room to have a quiet laugh at her expense. Oh, he was the great kiddier, all right. The next day, though, he had forgotten all about the hat.

The day after that he was reminded of his little jokefest. Mrs. Bunsen handed him a slip of paper when he came home to get his victuals that evening. It was a bill for rettrimming that hat; $18.34 it came to.

Bunsen paid it without a murmur and said the revised edition of the hat was just exactly right. He isn't making fun of hats any more.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NOTED ANAGRAMS.

Ingenious Transmutation of Names of Well Known Persons.

Anagrams that transmute the names of well known men and women are often startlingly appropriate. What could be better in this way than these announcements, evolved from two great statesmen's names when the reins of power changed hands: Gladstone, "G leads not" Disraeli, "I lead, sir" Quite as happy is the comment on the devoted nursing of Florence Nightingale, whose name yields "Flit on, cheering angel." Among those that are most often quoted we may mention Horatio Nelson, "Honor est a Nilo;" Charles James Stuart, "Claims Arthur's seat;" Pilate's question, "Quid est veritas?" ("What is truth?"), answered by "Est vir qui adest" ("It is the man here present"); Swedish nightingale, "Sing high, sweet Linda;" David Livingstone, "D. V. go and visit Nile;" the Marquis of Ripon (who resigned the grand mastership of Freemasons when he became a Romanist), "R. I. P., quoth Freemasons;" Charles, prince of Wales, "All France calls. Oh, help!" Sir Roger Charles Doughty Tichborne, baronet, "Yon horrid butcher orthon, biggest rascal here," and many shorter specimens, such as telegraph, "great help;" astronomers, "no more stars;" editors, "so tired;" tournament, "to run at men;" penitentiary, "may, I repeat;" old England, "golden land;" revolution, "to love ruin;" fashionable, "one-half bias;" lawyers, "sly ware;" midshipman, "mind his map;" poorhouse, "Oh, sour hope;" Presbyterian, "best in prayer;" sweetheart, "there we sat;" matrimony, "into my arm."—Chambers' Journal.

Air and Water "Cures."
It is a remarkable fact that, as with various natural so called "mineral waters" so with various "airs" which people find beneficial, no one has yet clearly and decisively shown, in the first place, whether they exert any chemical effect of a special kind on the people who seem to benefit by drinking the one or breathing the other. Still less has any one shown what is the particular chemical ingredient of the air or of the water of any given resort which exerts the beneficial effect attributed to that air or that water.—Sir E. Ray Lankester in London Telegraph.

Report and Resolutions Submitted by the Committee on Public Highways of the National Grange, at its Annual Meeting, Nov. 12-21, 1907, and Unanimously Adopted

Your Committee on Public Highways had under consideration, not only the broad question involved in the improvement of the public highways, but it has given special attention to the plans of the Executive and Legislative Committee to make the Grange campaign, in favor of Federal aid, effective. That plan is approved by the committee and the large amount of work already accomplished, in preparation for a vigorous campaign in support of the Grange plan, is in the highest degree commendable and reflects great credit on our Executive and Legislative Committee, who have perfected arrangements to bring to the support of the Grange campaign, to secure the enactment of the necessary legislation by Congress, the aid of the large industrial, commercial and manufacturing interests of the country.

In addition to this, arrangements are perfected to prosecute the campaign vigorously among the farmers in all unorganized sections of the country and through farm organizations not affiliated with the Grange. The plans are so perfect and comprehensive that a vigorous prosecution of the campaign all along the line is assured, and one that we may feel confident will bring early success.

Your Committee, therefore, unanimously approve the recommendations of the Worthy Master and the Executive Committee.

The resolutions referred to this Committee are in harmony with the plan and are hereby approved and incorporated in the following, as it were, on which the Grange campaign will be fought:

Whereas: The improvement of the highways of the country is a matter of general public concern, and should properly receive the attention and assistance of the National Government, and

Whereas: The revenue raised by taxes paid by the people of the country as a whole should be devoted as far as possible to purposes which will benefit the greater number of the taxpayers in all sections of the country, and

Whereas: No argument can be advanced in favor of the annual appropriations by Congress on behalf of river and harbor improvements that does not apply even more strongly to the improvement of our public roads; therefore

Resolved, That the National Grange favors a general policy of good roads construction by the various municipalities, counties and states, and

Resolved: That we favor the immediate enactment of legislation by Congress making liberal Federal appropriations for the improvements of the public highways of the country, these appropriations to be expended in such manner as Congress may prescribe.

Arrangements are made for giving these resolutions wide circulation in the press and in circular form. We therefore ask your unanimous endorsement.

Fraternally submitted,
Committee on Public Highways,
Oliver Wilson, chairman.

Proof is inexhaustible that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carries women safely through the Change of Life.

Read the letter Mrs. E. Hanson, 804 E. Long St., Columbus, Ohio, writes:

"I was passing through the Change of Life, and suffered from nervousness, headaches, and other annoying symptoms. My doctor told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me during this trying period."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Still, no man ever yet smiled with the toothache, while women have been known to manifest continued gaiety under the trying combination of new shoes, a violent headache and a pin sticking straight into the shivering spine.—Exchange.

The Lawrence association football team defeated the locals on the Cricket field on last Saturday afternoon by the score of 2 to 1. The game was full of spectacular plays and the outcome of the game was in doubt until the referee's whistle was blown at the end of the game. Punchard 5; Pinkerton 5

The Punchard High school football team journeyed to Derry, N. H. Tuesday afternoon where they lined up against the strong Pinkerton Academy eleven of that place and after a strenuous, well played and interesting game, the score was 5 to 5.

Punchard scored her touchdown early in the second half after a forward pass from Smith to Lindsay, the latter running about 15 yards and fumbling, Smith getting the ball and covering the remaining distance for a touchdown but failing to kick the goal.

Pinkerton scored her touchdown with 12 seconds to play, rushing the ball over from the two yard line in a desperate fight for a score.

The Andover team was severely handicapped by the loss of Capt. Kyle, Hickey, Fletcher, Sullivan and Carroll, who are debarred from playing on account of scholarship conditions, but the locals, with a good batch of substitutes, put up a stiff fight against odds and with a little practice should be in fair shape for the Methuen contest this afternoon.

Punchard put up a good offensive and defensive game but was outkicked by Knight of the Derry boys, the latter's punts being good for 40 to 55 yards every trip.

The Andover team worked the triple pass in good shape for 20 and 30 yards while Pinkerton worked the pass once.

Adeline Genee, the famous dancer from the Empire Theatre, London, who has created sensations where ever she has appeared, is to be seen in Boston for the first time at the Colonial Theatre, commencing Monday, October 19, in F. Ziegfeld Jr.'s musical entertainment "The Soul Kiss". The piece which is in two acts and ten scenes enjoyed a phenomenal run of twenty weeks in the New York Theatre last winter. It is the work of Harry B. Smith and Maurice Levi, and unlike most musical comedy offerings, "The Soul Kiss" carries a very interesting plot, which deals with the efforts of a French sculptor to find a kiss that shall be different from all others and shall come from the soul. He is assisted in his search for the maid who possesses this rare kiss by J. Lucifer Nephew, a thoroughly up-to-date devil who has wagered a million dollars on the outcome. Notwithstanding the fact that the eccentric sculptor has eighty charming maidens from which to exact this incomparable kiss, he reaches the conclusion that a kiss from the soul now-a-days is not to be had. Mlle Genee, is conspicuous throughout the entire performance, during which she will present four of the most popular ditties of her repertoire which will include "The Hunt Dance", "Sir Roger de Coverly", "The Soul Kiss" dance and "The Money Ballet". Genee, who through her beauty, charm and incomparable talent, has captured both worlds, made her American debut in New York last winter and instantly duplicated the success she earned on the other side of the Atlantic, where from ten consecutive years at the Empire Theatre, London, she danced her way into the hearts of the earth's important personages. The little Danish artist has danced, by royal command, before the King and Queen of England, Emperor William, Emperor Franz Josef, the Czar and Czarine of Russia, the King and Queen of Italy, the King of Denmark, and many other celebrities. Manager F. Ziegfeld, Jr., has surrounded Genee, with a company numbering one hundred musical comedy entertainers, which includes such popular favorites as Ralph C. Herz, a Micheline, John B. Park, Stella Tracy, Barney Bernard, Lee Harrison, Mortimer C. Weldon, and the handsomest chorus extant.

Genee's engagement in Boston will be of four weeks' duration only, and she will not be seen in any other New England city this season.

Progress in Wood Preservation

During the past few years greater advances have been made in methods of wood preservation than many people realize. Lumber users have become convinced that in the chemical treatment of timber and the consequent lengthening of the wood's life that they can save both the great cost of materials and the labor in renewals.

Just a few years ago a prominent man, in a paper read before the Pacific Coast Railway Club, called attention to the pressing need of a thorough investigation of all processes used in the preservation of wood. At that time he deplored the fact that neither the government nor corporations would offer inducements to men competent to carry out such investigations. The particular problem which he had in mind was the treatment of piling to make it resistant to attacks of marine wood borers, such as teredo and limnoria. This problem is indeed a serious one, but probably no more so than that of preserving ties, poles, and mine timbers, against decay.

About the same time that this paper was presented before the Pacific Coast Railway Club, the United States Forest Service established an office, the duties of which would be to investigate known preservatives and processes and to devise means, if possible, whereby the present methods could be improved or cheapened, or new methods developed to take the place of those already in use. Since its inception, the office of wood preservation has made rapid strides. Up to the present time experiments have been carried on in co-operation with corporations, educational institutions, and individuals, to try out various theories in actual practice, and the results have proved of value not only to the cooperators, but to a large number of people having interests similar to those to which the particular experiment applied.

Preservative treatment is recognized as a paying proposition wherever construction timber is exposed to soil or atmospheric influences causing decay. This statement is fully attested by the rapid increase in the use of treated timber in recent years. The increase has been most notable in the case of railway ties. All of the larger companies in the west now use treated ties to a greater or less extent, and many of them operate their own treating plants.

It is also notable that the use of treated timber is confined principally to corporations requiring very large quantities of construction material. This is largely accounted for by the fact that the pressure system of impregnation in common use requires retorts and machinery, and is not adapted to a plant of small capacity, thus making it impracticable for a concern using a small or moderate amount of timber to undertake treating.

Besides the plants operated by corporations for the treatment of their own construction timber, there are a number of plants which do a commercial business, but these being located at centers of distribution, where a permanent business is more readily assured, are not accessible to timber which goes direct from forest to consumer without passing through such central distribution point. For economy the treatment should be conducted at a point where additional transportation charges on account of the treating will be reduced to a minimum. The ranchman drawing his timber from the adjoining forests, should have on the ranch the means for treating his fence posts and similar materials. The mining concern should have at the mine a plant with capacity adapted to their need. An electric company whose lines extend over a considerable area and which draws its timber from various resources, may find a small portable plant best for treating poles.

For several years the Forest Service has been experimenting with a method of impregnating wood, which requires no expensive equipment, is simple in operation, and is adapted to a plant of any desired capacity. It is now known that all of the more porous woods can be treated successfully by this method. The method is called the "open tank" or "hot and cold bath" process. The impregnation is accomplished by thoroughly heating the timber in a tank containing a liquid substance, then running off the hot liquid and filling the tank with cold, or transferring the timber from a tank containing hot to a tank containing cold liquid, or allowing the whole to cool without change.

The theory of the process is that the air in the wood cells and intercellular spaces expands when heated and is partially expelled. Upon cooling, it again contracts, thus causing a partial vacuum, and the pressure of the air on the outside forces the liquid into the wood. The process may be applied with any of the preservatives in common use; as for instance, creosote oil and zinc chloride solution. The principle is the same whether the treating is done in a small tank holding a few fence posts and heated with a wood fire underneath, or in larger tanks fitted with steam coils for heating, pumps for handling the oil, and labor saving devices for handling the timber.

The results of the government's extensive experiments in wood preservation are published in circulars and bulletins, which along with any specific information desired, may be had by all interested persons who address the Forester at Washington, D. C.

It is a waste of effort to try to heat one's house with hot air. A little less talk and a little more time at the wood pile.

How to Read an Electric Meter

Of all the mechanical arrangements ever introduced in the home the recording wattmeter is the most mystifying. Although this little device decides on the amount of the monthly electric light bill its ways are so dark and mysterious that the ordinary layman cannot even read it, let alone tell how it works.

After all it is a very simple device, consisting essentially of a tiny motor which actuates the dial pointers by means of a train of gears. The motor is in circuit with the lamps and revolves at a speed proportionate with the current being gused. If only one lamp is turned on the motor revolves very slowly, increasing in speed with every additional lamp. Or if a number of lamps are in use and one is turned off the motor diminishes in speed and will continue to do so for every lamp that is extinguished.

The reading of a meter is as simple as its construction and any user of electric current can read his own meter and check his electric light bills by following a few simple directions. Electricity is measured by the kilowatt-hour or by the watt-hour, one kilowatt being equivalent to one thousand watts.

First. Note carefully the unit in which the dials read. On all meters made by the General Electric Company, the figures above or below the dials indicate the value of one complete revolution of the pointer, therefore one division indicates one-tenth of the amount marked above or below.

Second. Note direction of rotation of dial pointers. Counting from the right the pointers of the first, third and fifth dials of the General Electric Company's meters rotate in the direction of the hands of a watch, whereas the pointers of the second and fourth dials move in the opposite direction.

Third. Read dials from right to left, setting down figures as read.

Fourth. Always read the figure on each dial, which has been last passed or is just covered by the pointer.

Note carefully. Each dial reading depends on the reading of the one next to it on the right. Unless the one before it has completed a revolution or passed the 0, the pointer which is being read has not completed the division upon which it may appear to rest, and still indicates the figure last passed over.

Fifth. See if the register is direct reading; i. e., has no multiplying constant.

Some registers are not direct reading but require that the dial reading be multiplied by a constant in order to obtain the true reading. If the register face bears the words, "multiply by 1-2," "multiply by 2," etc., the actual reading should be divided by 2 in the first case or doubled in the second, and similarly for other constants.

Sixth. Subtract from the present reading the reading of last month, multiply the difference in kilowatt hours by the rate per kilowatt hour you are paying and you have the amount of your bill in dollars and cents.

The President's Mail

President Roosevelt's mail is stacked high these days with letters concerning the Commission on Country Life, which he recently created, and the number of communications on the subject is growing greater daily. A rather strange feature of this correspondence, considering the far-reaching significance of the Commission, is that so far it has contained no word of adverse comment from any quarter. The suggestions are all constructive, and many of them will prove of great help to the Commission when it formulates its plans of campaign.

Many of the letters to the President are from men whose names are known everywhere, but the bulk of them are from the men who are most vitally interested—the farmers themselves. The general tenor of the farmers' letters shows not only are they deeply concerned in the work of the Commission, but that they have clear-headed ideas of the President's purpose in starting the inquiry and of what the outcome may be. The writers get down to the business and set forth their ideas with a hard-headed logic and clearness of statement that makes it seem a little doubtful if the belief of some persons that rural schools ought to be improved is well-founded. The farmers themselves, however, agree that the educational facilities in the country districts ought to be made over so as to fit country conditions and needs more closely. A number of writers urge the need of introducing some sort of elementary agriculture into the schools. Not all are of the opinion, however, some maintain that there is a danger of trying to make agricultural instruction too academic.

The one point in which all the farmers without exception agree with the President is that the greatest trouble with agricultural life is its isolation. The remedy for this that is most frequently proposed is better roads. Another solution that is advocated by a large proportion of the writers is that a means be found to prevent the holding of large farms by persons or corporations who do not work themselves. The argument is advanced that such action would attract settlers to the country and that the wide spaces between farms would be broken up, and that further if the big tracts which are now worked by absentee owners or held for speculation were split up among independent owners, there would be greater opportunity for small farmers to come in and gain profitable livelihoods.

A number of the President's correspondents urge a revival in some sort of the old lyceum which provided a social center for rural communities. Several writers tell of excellent results that have been obtained in their own neighborhoods by literary societies, not so much in their educational capacity as in providing a community bond.

Many suggestions are made concerning the post-office service.

Record of Ballardvale Team for the Season of 1908.

The Ballardvale baseball team has finished its seventh consecutive season with a record in many respects the most remarkable in its history. It has played 19 games, winning 14 and losing 4 and one tie game of 15 innings. It has played three extra inning games of 12, 16 and 15 innings respectively. Cronin pitched in 13 of the victories and Donovan 1. No battery in the State has done better all-round work than Ballardvale's star battery, Cronin and Daly.

Cronin pitched in 18 games striking out 202 and allowing 78 hits, an average of 11 strikeouts and allowing his opponents four hits a game. Such work could not but attract attention, and as a result Cronin has been signed to play with the Lawrence New England league team for next season.

Daly has given Cronin superb support behind the bat, playing 18 games, having only 5 passed balls and leading his team in fielding with the fine average of .953. Sidley leads the batting, closely followed by Morrell, who is three points behind and leads in stolen bases, 17. Cronin leads in runs scored, 17. Manager Lynch for the third consecutive year has turned out a winning team and has certainly earned a very enviable record for a successful manager. James Clinton and Henry Platt have umpired in a very successful manner. Following is the complete official batting and fielding averages of all the players who have taken part in over four games:

Wedding

FERRIER—LINDSAY

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lindsay on Washington avenue presented the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, when their daughter, Miss Mary Miller, became the bride of Julius Harvey Ferrier of Beverly. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank R. Shipman of the South church in the parlor in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties. The room was very prettily decorated with potted palms, ferns and cut flowers. From the chandelier cut flowers and greenery were suspended to all corners of the room and the whole scene was one of great beauty. The bride was dressed in white, and wore a large train, and a large bouquet of white pinks. The groom was dressed in a tuxedo and wore a large boutonniere of white pinks. The bridesmaids were dressed in white and wore large bouquets of white pinks. The groomsmen were dressed in tuxedos and wore large boutonnieres of white pinks. The wedding party entered the room to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding march played by Miss Bertha C. Coutts. Mrs. Louis D. Cook, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Misses Alice Leslie and Grace Durgin of Jamaica Plain were bridesmaids. The groomsmen were Frank Keeney, of Beverly, a friend of the groom.
